GREEK MARBLE AND TRAVERTINE

STONE MASTERS

*Marble
a symbol of eternity*

STONE MASTERS

mramor
μαρμαρος, [mármaros]

from the Greek word mármaros – shining stone

Each piece of stone is a story that lasts longer than civilization. Etched by time, polished by history — yet still new.

Marble is a dialogue between nature and man. It combines tradition, art and the power of the land into a unique form, which remains beautiful centuries later.

A living material that evolves with space. It evolves, transforms — and captivates again and again.

Born of stone and family

A story written by time

Our story began years ago in southern Europe, where sunlight glitters on white cliffs and the wind carries the scent of the sea. It was in Greece — the cradle of marble, where stone is not just a material, but the memory of the land. Our grandfathers used to stand in the quarries with hands covered in dust and eyes full of respect for the power of nature. They knew that they were not just pulling a stone from the depths of a mountain, but a piece of history that would live on in the hands of those who understood it.

At home, they used to talk about stone the way others talk about wine. About its grain, its colour, the way it breathes when the rain wets it. And just as the wine matures, so does the man who learns to read the stone. Through generations, people passed down not only the know-how to quarry and work the stone, but also a profound reverence for the craft and for time. When the Steiger family decided to pursue this tradition in the heart of Europe, the Stone Masters brand was born. Not just to sell stone, but to pass on the Greek philosophy of beauty, durability and harmony. Today, we stand on the same values as our ancestors — strength, honesty and a relationship with the material that shapes space and people.

„In our home, people talked about stone the way others talk about wine. Its grain, its colour, the way it breathes when soaked by the rain.“

MICHALA STEIGER

Family of stone

Three generations later, we are standing at the same stone — not just in Greece, but also in the heart of Europe, in Czechia.

Our hands are different, but the touch remains the same. Years passed and we stayed. The families who have breakfast together also meet in the morning in the workshop. The fathers with their sons, the mothers with their daughters — all looking at the same piece of marble, but each seeing something different in it. For some, it is work; for others, a legacy — for us, it is all of these together.

We don't make stone.
We pass on the story.

Our quarries and production halls are staffed by people who have spent more than 20 years working there. These are hands that know the stone as well as its pulse. Every cut, every polish, every block — everything that leaves the quarry bears traces of the sea, the sun and human labour.

We don't make stone. We are passing on a story that began long before us — and continues on in every home you touch. its surface.

We are Stone Masters

A family brand backed by the Steiger family - built on solid foundations, its own mining and manufacturing, and the craftsmanship we cherish. Our family quarries and production facilities of over 60,000 m² allow us to control the entire process - from the raw block to the perfect final product.

This enables us to offer not only the highest quality, but also an open and personal approach to each project. Our ambition is for you to take away from each visit not only inspiration, but also an idea of how your project will gain character, soul and timeless elegance. We believe that an environment where you can see, feel and touch the stone will allow you to realise your vision with a precision that lasts.

Stone Masters combines Greek tradition and the power of nature to bring every space to life as a work of art.

As wine matures, so does the one who learns to read stone.

Traditional soul, modern form

We combine the craftsmanship of stonemasons and modern technology to deliver quality that endures for generations.

We can handle large projects — as well as the most personal ones. And always with one goal in mind — to make every piece of stone that enters your interior special.

Quarries

We have seven family marble quarries where we quarry selected blocks of natural stone with respect for nature. Each has its own origin, character and tone - from soft white shades to deep, golden textures.

Materials from our quarries are valued by architects and designers around the world for their aesthetics, strength and timeless elegance. They are created by combining traditional techniques with modern technology, which guarantee precise workmanship and a unique look.

Depending on their type and variety, marble blocks are used for interiors, exteriors, gardens and architectural elements. Thanks to our own quarrying, we are sure of the origin of each piece of stone and can thus guarantee quality that will last for generations.

Seven quarries

Seven places where our work, stories and passion for stone are born. Our family quarries and modern processing factory with an area of over 60,000 m² allow us to manage the entire process - from extraction to the final product.

Marble from our locations is exported to many countries around the world, where it is part of prestigious projects, timeless implementations and final products. Thanks to our extensive facilities, we can offer materials in a wide variety of formats and thicknesses - from large-format 300 × 185 × 2 cm slabs to monumental blocks.

We process each stone with the utmost precision and care, whether it is intended for flooring, wall tile, sinks, bathtubs or luxury interior elements.

Our goal is for each piece of stone to express its own personality, adding both character and elegance to any space.

World class quality

Whether you are looking for a unique addition to your interior or undertaking a large-scale project with an architect or developer, we offer solutions that combine aesthetics with functionality.

Every detail is designed to combine the beauty of marble and the precision of modern craftsmanship. Our materials transform the space into a place where nature, art and human labour meet.

A stone that is created with respect will last longer than a lifetime – and yet never lose its appeal.

Factory

Thanks to our ties with family quarries, we control the entire mining and production process. We follow each piece of stone from the moment it leaves the ground to the moment it turns into a finished product.

Our factory is located close to the quarries, which shortens logistics and allows a quick transition from raw block to final processing. Mining and subsequent processing are carried out using modern technologies that combine the precision of machines with the craftsmanship of our craftsmen.

After quarrying, blocks are carefully cut, ground and polished into large slabs, tiles and individually manufactured elements such as stairs, window sills or washbasins. Every detail is created with a focus on surface quality, aesthetics and durability.

Quality from the start

The proximity to the quarries and production ensures that quality is present at every step. We carefully select the blocks, monitor their processing and final finishes – all to ensure that the final product is not only beautiful, but also durable.

Our technology allows us to create precise dimensions, consistent colours and textures. Thanks to this, we are able to realize even the most demanding architectural and design projects, where perfection is expected from every detail.

The stone from our hands is not just a building material, but the result of craftsmanship that combines nature, art and honest work.

The history of marble

Marble is a material that has written the history of human civilization. For thousands of years, it has been a symbol of beauty, strength and perfection – from ancient temples and statues to palaces that still captivate with their charm.

Greek marble, mined on the islands of Paros, Naxos and Thassos, has been sought after since antiquity for its fine texture and uniquely translucent whiteness. Ionic statues such as the Venus of Milo, Nike of Samothrace and the architectural gems of Athens were created from this stone. Each piece of marble carries a story – it captures the touch of time, hands and tradition. Its variability, veining and surface reflect the origin and energy of the land from which it comes.

Thanks to the combination of traditional mining methods and modern technologies, marble finds its place in contemporary architecture – in luxury interiors, design projects and public buildings. It's not just a stone – it's history turned into art that has endured for generations.

Travertine - the stone of warmth and calm

Travertine is a stone with the soul of the landscape where it is created — it is shaped by water, time and minerals that leave it with subtle layers and warm tones.

Its characteristic veining and porous structure create a look that feels lively yet harmonious. It has been used since the Roman Empire, when it decorated amphitheatres, temples and baths. Today, travertine is making a comeback in modern architecture as a material that combines natural authenticity with modern aesthetics. Its subtle palette of beige, honey and cream shades adds warmth and refinement to interiors. Each piece is an original a trace of nature that has been captured in stone.

Travertin Stone Masters

a natural elegance that calms the space and the mind.

Onyx - the stone of light

Onyx is exceptional in its ability to transmit light. It is a stone that literally glows — its layers create unique waves of colour, from golden tones to deep green or amber shades.

Even ancient civilizations considered onyx as a symbol of luxury and spiritual power. It was used in the decoration of temples and palaces, where it reflected candlelight and sunlight, creating a magical atmosphere. In modern architecture, it has become synonymous with prestige. It is ideal for backlit walls, bar counters or decorative panels where its depth and natural gloss will stand out.

Onyx Stone Masters

the stone that turns light into art.

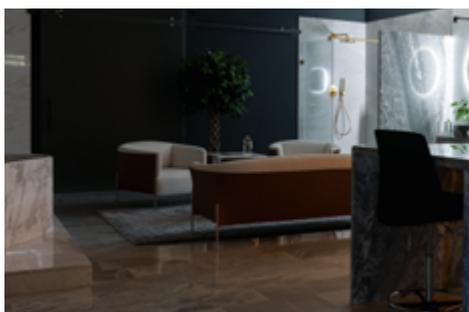

Showroom

We have opened a new showroom in Prague 7 – a space where natural stone, craftsmanship and modern design meet. It is not just an exhibition, but a place where you can calmly feel the structure, colour and energy of each material.

The marble, travertine or onyx slabs on display make it easy to imagine how stone can enrich your interior. The exhibition also includes examples of bathrooms in various formats, which allow you to see the final effect on a real scale. In addition to classic interior solutions, you will also find distinctive elements for working and representative spaces – marble tables, sink blocks, tiles and details that give each project its personality. Every visitor has the opportunity to browse the showroom in comfort and choose exactly what fits their vision.

We specialize in the production of stone elements in various scales – from precise interior details to large-scale realizations. Our products retain a timeless quality and aesthetic value that has not lost its charm over the years.

Experience and flexibility allow us to work with architects, designers and investors. Whether you are looking for an original feature for your home or a solution for a large-scale project, we offer a tailored approach and expert advice every step of the way.

Stone Masters is not just about stone – it is about a space where tradition, innovation and the human touch come together. This gives each project a unique character and timeless elegance.

Argentinská 1621/36

Our showroom can be found at Argentinská 1621/36, Prague 7. It is open on weekdays, but you can arrange a personal appointment at any time according to your time availability.

Give yourself the time to choose, examine our materials closely, and be inspired by the setting where stone truly comes alive.

We are happy to walk you through the space, present various combinations and finishes, and assist you in selecting the one that perfectly suits your interior.

Stone Collection

In our catalogue you will discover a collection of marbles named after Greek gods – a reference to the strength, beauty, and perfection that this stone has embodied for centuries.

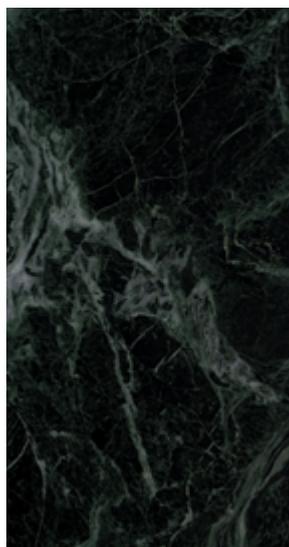

Each name reflects the character and aesthetics of the particular type. Just as the figures of Greek mythology embody a certain energy, our marbles carry their own distinctive story, colour and expression.

In this way we connect ancient tradition with modern architecture – so that each project gains not only an exceptional material but also a piece of symbolism that brings depth and harmony to the space.

Interior

An interior radiating natural charm and elegance. The moment you step into a space clad in natural marble from Stone Masters, you will feel the balance between material, light and space.

Each surface gently reflects light and enhances the natural veining of the stone. The texture of the marble changes with the angle of view – connecting the mass with the light and creating an atmosphere of calm, refinement and lasting beauty.

Stone is not just a decoration for us. It is a living element that gives depth and character to the space. It transforms the interior into a harmonious place where craft, nature and modern architecture come together.

Stone Masters has a “tailor-made” philosophy – we prepare marble exactly according to your ideas and plans.

Thanks to 3D models and digital measurements, we can ensure that every piece fits perfectly into your space.

Without unnecessary modifications, with maximum precision and respect for the material. Every detail has been thought out – from the shape to the surface. The result is an interior that remains timeless, authentic and exceptional, just like the stone from which it was made.

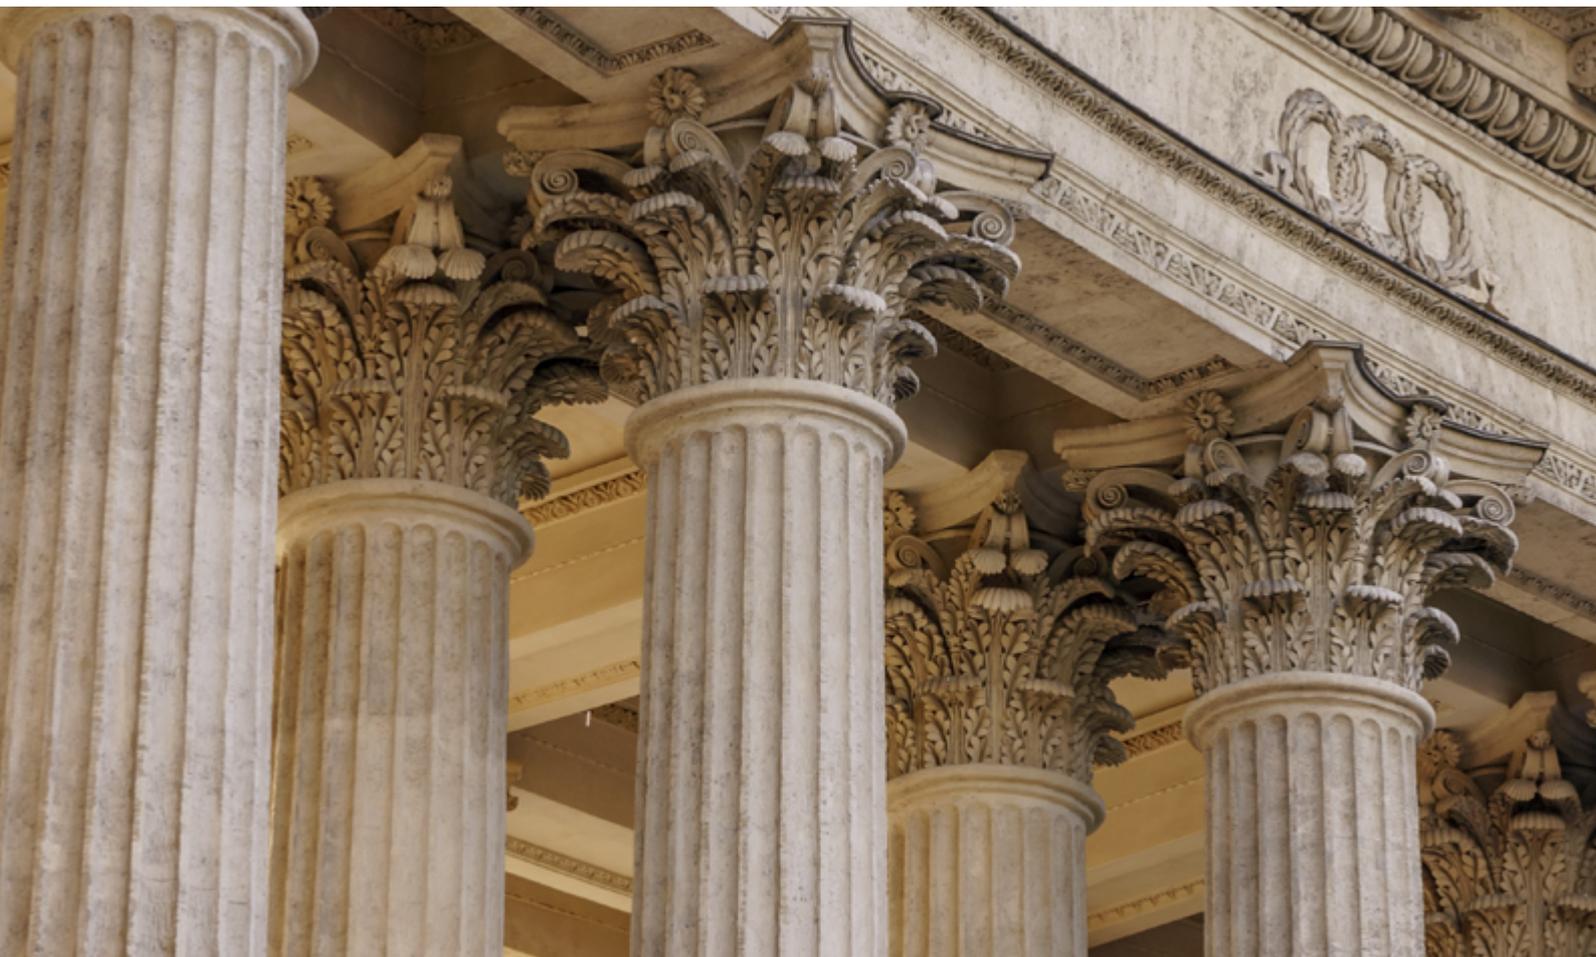

Architecture

Marble is more than just a stone – it is a material that shapes space, light and time. It stands out for its elegance, durability and timeless charm, making it perfect for interior and exterior use.

Every Stone Masters marble project bears the mark of uniqueness. In the interior, it naturally dominates – fireplaces, kitchen and dining countertops, bathrooms, and functional work features.

In the exterior, it finds its place on facades, terraces, staircases and in garden architecture. The variety of surface finishes, from high gloss to a finely grooved texture, allows not only different visual effects to be created, but also functional solutions with anti-slip or specific textures.

The marble can thus adapt to both modern minimalist designs and classic buildings with soul.

Its versatility and natural beauty give each space a unique character. Stone that has stood the test of time becomes the foundation of architecture that will last for generations.

Implementation

Depending on the type of project and its location, we can help you choose the ideal type of marble from our portfolio.

We take into account size, thickness and surface finish to ensure a result that is aesthetically perfect and durable for many years.

Every detail is designed with respect for the material – from stone selection to final installation. Our goal is to ensure your project carries lasting value and an aesthetic that remains timeless.

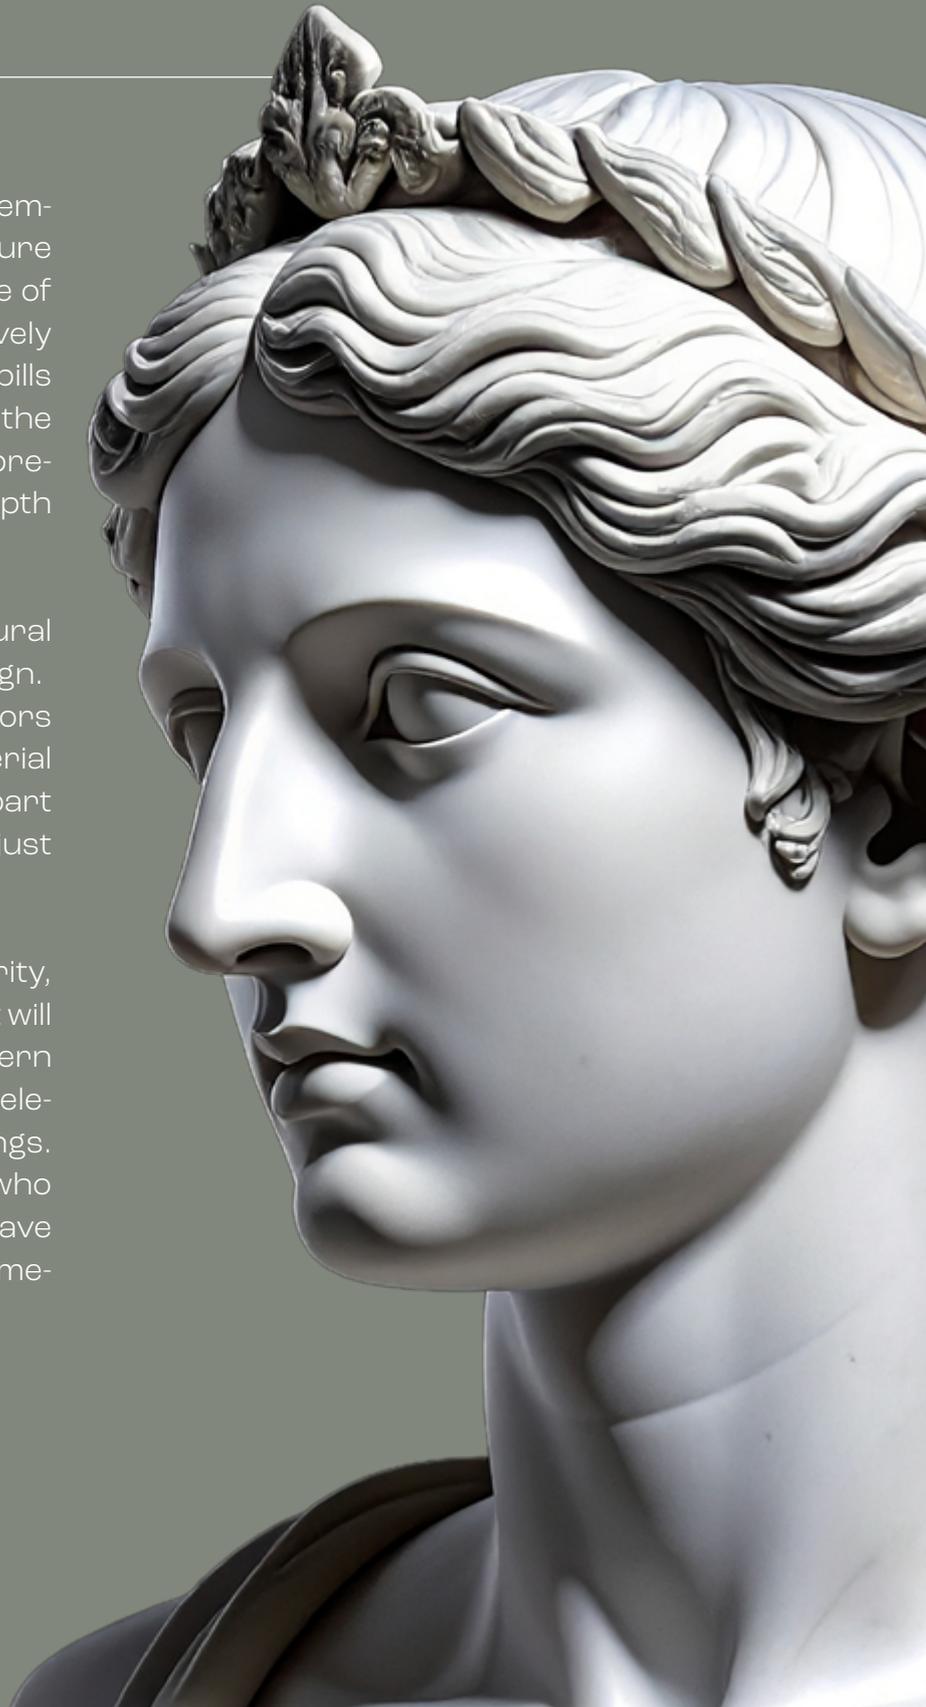

Artemis

The Artemis collection embodies the power of nature and the feminine principle of balance. Its texture is lively and energetic – light spills over it like the surface of the sea, while bright shades breathe freshness and depth into the space.

This stone combines natural beauty with modern design. It is suitable for interiors where you want the material to breathe – to become part of the architecture, not just an addition.

Artemis is a symbol of purity, independence and light. It will enhance the lines of modern space and the classic elegance of historic buildings. It is the stone for those who want their interiors to have soul – while remaining timeless.

The Poseidon collection presents marble with a dynamic structure and distinctive character. Each slab brings depth, energy and elegant drama to the interior and exterior, reminiscent of the power of the ocean currents. Unique veining and changing hues create the impression of movement and fluidity - as if a wave has stopped in time in the stone.

This material is one of the hardest and most durable natural stones, making it ideal not only for luxury interior applications, but also for facades, outdoor elements and other exterior applications.

It is hardy, resists high temperatures and is also ideal for use around fireplaces and heat-stressed surfaces.

Poseidon is the choice for projects that want to exude energy, strength and natural sophistication, while requiring a material with the highest level of durability.

With sandstone, you can turn your space into a place that breathes nature, peace and harmony.

Each layer tells the story of time - of the land, sea and wind that have shaped it over the centuries into a form full of depth and warmth. Sandstone is designed for those who seek authenticity, texture and natural elegance in interior and exterior design.

Its subtle graininess and earthy tone create an atmosphere of stability, balance and a return to essence.

Due to its character and surface properties, sandstone is ideal for facades, wall cladding, floors and pool areas, where its texture naturally blends in with the surrounding landscape and gives the place a warm, harmonious expression.

Stone as art

Mramor Art

Every detail of the etched marble tells its own story – of patience, depth and beauty that comes from the touch of a human hand.

The surfaces are finely worked and each motif is the result of a perfect interplay between traditional stone techniques and modern design.

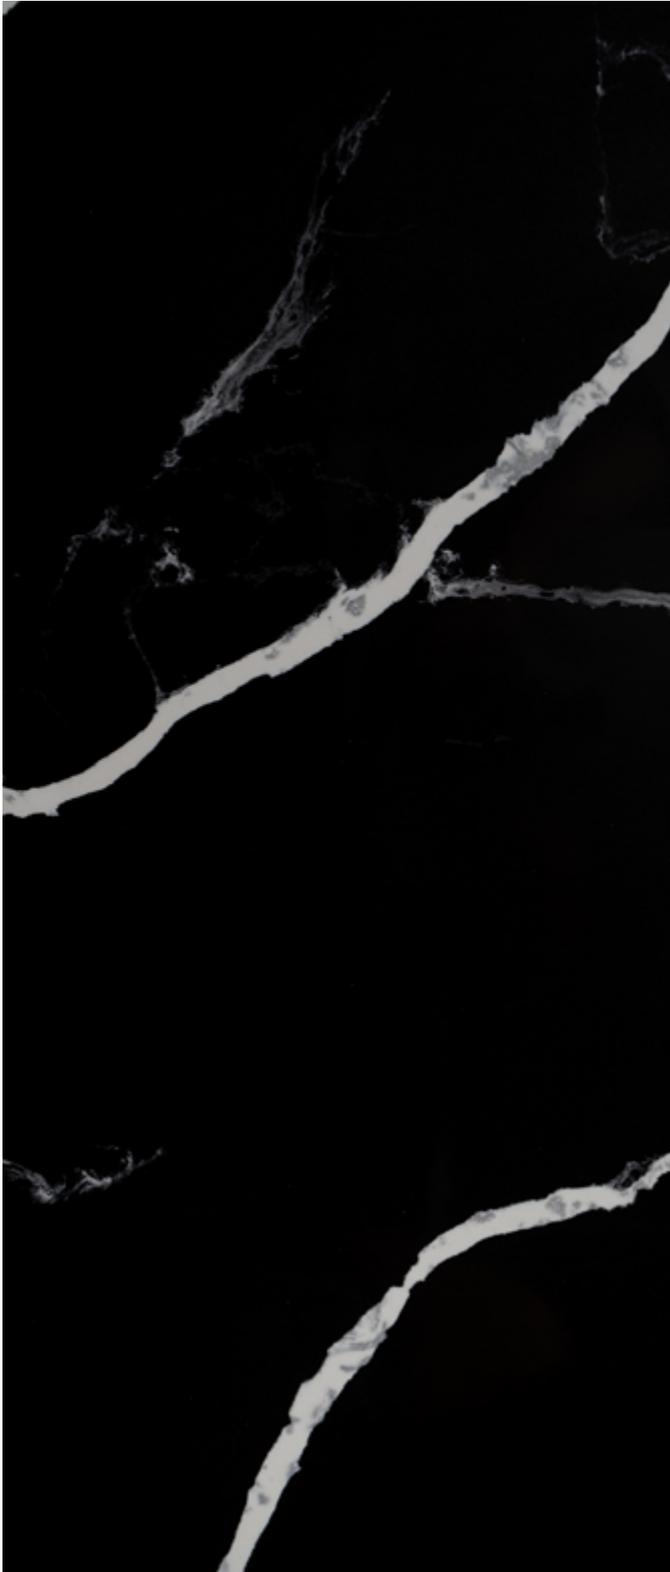

This collection transforms stone into a work of art – unique, permanent and alive.

Each project is unique — just like the stone from which it is made. At Stone Masters, we create products exactly according to our clients' ideas and needs.

We design and custom-make everything from bathroom elements, such as sinks, bathtubs and tiles, to interior accessories — including coffee and dining tables, countertops, window sills, and designer panels.

Our experience and technological background allow us to process stone with maximum precision, to preserve its natural beauty and adapt it to the specific space. Each piece is created in close collaboration with the customer — from initial design to final implementation.

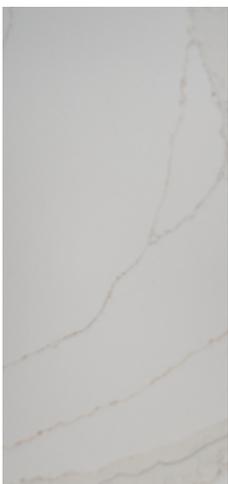

This results in unique products that combine aesthetics, functionality and a personal story.

Surface finishes for marble and travertine

Each surface has a different character, touch and light. By choosing the finish, you determine not only the appearance of the stone but also the way it will influence your space — from a mirror gloss to a natural matt or distinctive texture.

Surface finishes for marble and travertine

THE HYDROPHOBIC PROTECTION

The hydrophobic protection of marble significantly reduces its water absorption and protects it from stains from water, oils or wine. The surface stays clean longer, is easier to maintain and dirt does not soak into the stone. Thanks to impregnation, the marble will retain its natural appearance and its lifetime and aesthetic quality will be extended.

THE NON-SLIP MARBLE FINISH

The non-slip marble finish increases safety on wet and heavily used surfaces by significantly reducing the risk of slipping. The surface remains pleasant to the touch yet stable even in contact with water. The treatment does not alter the appearance of the stone, is long lasting and ideal for bathrooms, stairs, patios and commercial spaces.

THE SYNTHETIC VISUAL FINISH

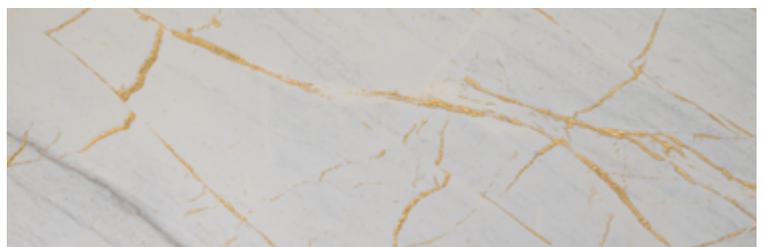

The synthetic visual finish of marble gives the surface a more uniform, aesthetically distinctive appearance. It can highlight the pattern, deepen the colour and create a wet stone effect or, on the contrary, a satin matt surface.

Gilding and silver plating

We can gild or silver-plate details - a subtle touch of luxury that emphasises the uniqueness of each piece.

Polished

The polished finish produces a very smooth and high gloss surface that greatly enhances the marbling and colours of the natural stone. Thanks to the mirror effect, the material looks luxurious and elegant and is suitable for modern interiors and representative spaces. For marble, polishing achieves a deep, intense shine, while travertine has a softer sheen and usually requires prior pore sealing. This finish is ideal where aesthetics and ease of cleaning are a priority.

Honed/ Matte

A honed surface offers a matt, unified, glare-free appearance that looks calm and natural. The stone is smooth to the touch but less slippery than the polished version, making it suitable for floors and heavily frequented areas. In marble, honing creates a subtle satin effect, while in travertine it emphasises its natural texture. This finish combines aesthetics with practicality and is versatile for both modern and timeless interiors.

Brushed

A brushed surface is created by mechanical brushing, which highlights the natural relief of the stone and creates a gently undulating texture. The surface has a warm, natural feel and is pleasant to the touch. In travertine, the texture is more pronounced due to its porosity, while in marble it is more subtle and sophisticated. This finish is suitable for interiors and exteriors and gives the stone a natural, authentic look.

Sandblasted

A sandblasted finish creates a rougher, evenly matt surface with excellent slip resistance, ideal for outdoor use - patios, walkways or around swimming pools. The surface gains increased weather resistance and offers safe use even in wet conditions. Travertine looks more rustic and coarse after sandblasting, while marble creates a finer, evenly textured surface. This treatment is suitable where safety and durability are a priority.

Due to its natural porosity, Travertine is often additionally treated with epoxy or cementitious compounds to close open pores and achieve a smoother, more compact surface. Epoxy bonding produces a very strong, durable and aesthetically uniform filler that is ideal for interior use and subsequent polishing or sanding. However, it is important to stress that epoxy sealed travertine is not suitable for outdoor installations as the epoxy filler may degrade, turn yellow or separate from the stone over time due to temperature changes, UV light or moisture.

Cementitious sealants are therefore a safer choice for exteriors, as they are naturally weather resistant, work better with temperature changes and allow for long-term use in harsh environments.

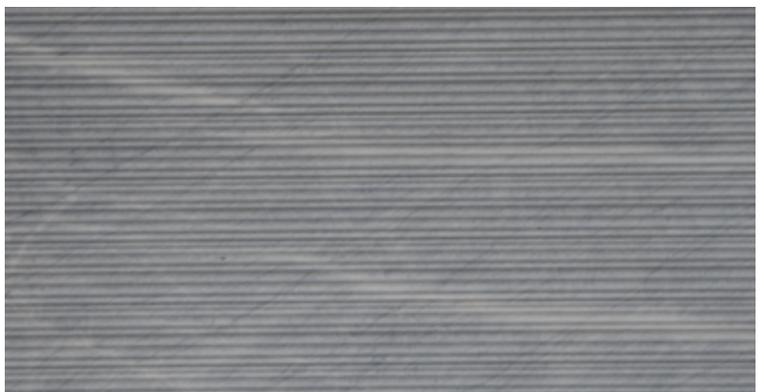

Antiqued / Tumbled

An antiqued surface resembles naturally worn stone with rounded edges and a fine patina. In travertine, the texture creates a very authentic antique impression, while marble has a subtle and elegant patina after this treatment. The result is a warm, traditional and timeless character suitable for rustic, Mediterranean and classic interiors. This finish is popular for its decorative and natural look.

Ribbed / Grooved

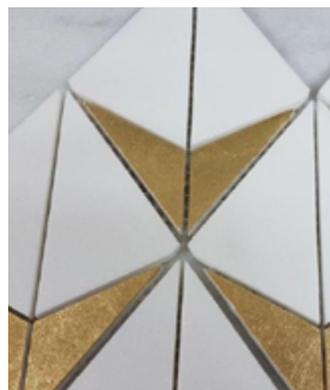

The scalloped finish is created by milling regular lines into the surface of the stone, adding a modern and architectural character. This surface also improves slip resistance and facilitates water drainage, making it ideal for stairs, facades or decorative elements. In travertine, the texture is more pronounced due to the porosity of the material, while in marble it looks clean and very elegant. This finish combines functionality, aesthetics and modern design.

Mosaics

We create stone mosaics with the utmost attention to detail, craftsmanship precision and aesthetics. Each individual fragment is hand-assembled to create a timeless image that adds character, depth and elegance to the space.

With STONE MASTERS you get an original artistic element that will enhance the atmosphere of any interior or exterior.

Edge treatment of marble

We offer a wide range of stone edge treatments - from simple straight edges to luxurious. Ogee Edge profiles. Each shape is the result of precise handwork, which guarantees a perfect appearance and a long life.
